

Scripture Union in Fiji

OCTOBER Edition

Thy Word is the lamp unto my feet and the light unto my path—Psalms 119:105

EDITORIAL :

It was only yesterday, at least it did feel like yesterday when the school year started. Now we are on the last lap of the 2013 academic year. A lot has happened this year, ministry wise and we have also witnessed amazing breakthroughs and testimonies of greatness. Not ours but God who remains indescribable. We had a wave of activities for our children this year from rallies, concerts, Christian fellowships, bible studies, worship services to the likes. A lot of young people made that personal decision to serve Jesus Christ and it must have been a constant celebration in heaven constantly as our volunteers introduced the Lord and Savior to many of our students. We are now looking forward to the last program of the year. The 2013 Annual Camp which is always an anticipated event for SU. Many people have in the past given their lives to King Jesus at such camps and today serve as pastors, professionals, community workers and government officials. The impacts these events and camp makes often last in the minds of those that are privileged to attend such camps. My last camp as a SUIS member was in 1998 then at RSMS and I remember that day like it was yesterday. The friendships created, the Word that made an impact in my life and my own commitment to serve Jesus faithfully are part of the hallmarks for me of camp. I cannot for the life of me imagine my life without God and this is SU's influence over time. The impacts the Word has made and the extended family of God I have made through this ministry.

This newsletter again provides a glimpse of what has taken place this month. The breakthroughs, the miracles and the people, the Almighty God that define Scripture Union. Enjoy this edition and do prayerfully consider how you can be part of our Great Commission in schools if you have not already been. Blessings always.

Dinner with a purpose: Sowing into our mission in schools

A free dinner, now that can be a crowd drawer...but for the many that attended SU's free dinner, this was more than just about a free dinner. It would be about coming to find out why a ministry as ours would even host a free dinner given that we seek funds consistently to support our Christian fellowship programs in schools. Well that night, many left satisfied and blessed as they heard about our work with the impacts we are making in schools and through our children and the free dinner was just the bonus. To often many people do not know our work in schools unless they ask. For others, they do know of SU's work but think that we have a definite source of income that funds our mission work. However to get to know the real Scripture Union, one is forced to concede that we are definitely a faith based ministry whose main source of income is from the Lord whose faithfulness has carried us through some of the most challenging peri-court case and we are continuing to strengthen our mission work in schools and meeting our financial commitments. Despite our financial struggles, we have continued to look to King Jesus our source and strength and through this experience, God reminds us that He is still our Jehovah Jaire—the Lord our Provider. This newsletter is titled Faith Seed simply because it has been the ods of our mission work. We have in the past been taken to court for unpaid FNPF dues, not because we are trying to cheat the system, but simply because there was not enough money in our account to faith seed of our financial partners that has seen us continue our work in schools. Even as we went through our "drought seasons" we were optimistic that this work is too important to be dictated by our negative bank account. To take the easy way out was to just close shop and let the churches take over or let the schools decide for themselves whether they want Christian Fellowship programs to operate. But it is for His Cause, through the vision of SU in sharing the Word of God to all students and their families that keeps us motivated to pray, seek funds and ensure that our doors remain open to serve children and families in Fiji through encouraging them to read the Bible and get to personally experience and know this Almighty and All Sufficient God of the Bible. And so the dinner was really about sharing about the work of SU in schools and also to encourage people to partner with us in this Great Commission we have in schools. The people that came, gave graciously to support our mission in schools. The dinner raised $1750 to support SU and we are extremely grateful for this heart of giving.

A couple's lifeline of service

The Tukana's commitment and dedication to the work of Scripture Union is time tested and today they remain a stalwart of SU. While Mariana served as SU's Treasurer for over 10 years, Usa is today one of the Trustees for SU. The couple have seen some of SU's difficult seasons and affirm their calling in student and family ministry by remaining committed to serving God through SU. Despite leading busy lives in their own professions, raising their family and servicing their community and church family, they have not hesitated to respond to SU's call to serve and prayerfully and financially support the work. The Tukana's were part of SUIIS during their school days in the 80's and have remained committed to the vision of SU. They have inspired and mentored so many young people and are very supportive of SU's programs like camps, rallies, etc. Their legacy of Christian service will go on after them and this is already evident in their son Jone's life who is part of the SWG Team. Jone is now at USP. Since the couple have always been part of SU even as single people until today, we see the impacts of their life and service to the Lord through SU.

A widow's offering and a generous heart

One of the most powerful observation we have in the Bible is when Jesus sitting at the temple courts was looking at those that came to give their offering to the Lord. The one that caught his attention was the lowly widow with her 2 mites, today's equivalent of 2 cents. King Jesus said that she gave more than the others before her. To contextualise that today, meet Fine Ditoka. She is a widow raising her three children since the passing of their dad and her husband a few years ago. Fine or Ms Fyne and her children are today one of Scripture Union's most giving and dedicated family.

As a member of the SU Council, her service to the Lord through SU is a given, but not to many people know that Ms Ditoka's ministry also includes opening up her home to many young people for their fellowship, prayers, encouragement, a place to eat or sleep. Her home is rightly named Shalom House or the house of peace and this is home to many young people. Ms Fyne has always welcomed and opened her doors to many people. Whenever one visits Shalom house, it surely will be greeted with laughter and food and with that the spiritual fellowships and encouragement that draws many to Ms Fyne and Shalom House. And like the disciples as they queried how can a widow who only gave 2 cents have given more than those that gave in the tens, hundreds or thousands, we often ask how can a widow feed the many that come to her home and still find time to smile. The answer is always in the miracle of giving. The Ditoka's lives testify of God's constant provisions for them and the many hungry young people both physical and spiritual that come to Shalom House to be blessed. As a Council Member and a mother, Ms Fyne knows too well the spiritual cries and loneliness of many young people and she serves them very well by opening up her heart and home at Shalom House to bless these many young people. One only has to ask a range of young people and they can point you to Shalom House and to the lady of the house whose grace and smile welcomes you home. Ms Fyne's offerings are great even if they sometimes will look small. Her selfless acts and generous heart are certainly worth a whole lot more to eternity.

Worship is a big part of Bill's life.

Bill Siqila is our Nadi area SU coordinator. He is a gifted worshipper and a young man whose passionate about serving Christ through Scripture Union. Speaking to Bill sometime ago, he shared about their work in the west through SU and his passion is clearly tangible as he reflects on the joy of taking the Gospel to schools. He shared about how as working volunteers in the West they support the non working volunteers who go to schools by giving them bus-fares and other necessary support, just so that the work in schools can continue. Such is the dedication of Bill. His spare time is devoted to the work of mission in schools, and he does this with much passion and commitment. For most of SU's mission work in the west, one will find Bill at the centre. Bill's sacrifices to advance the Kingdom of God is profound and his life is about honouring Jesus Christ in his life. Bill's life-style is worship and he continuously leads many people to experience the joy of knowing God personally through worship.

An Educator with a difference:

Mrs. Emi Rabukawaqa needs very little introduction. Most of us would be familiar with her name as she signed most of our external records results slip. She was the Permanent Secretary of Education and is today retired However retirement has taken Mrs. Rabukawaqa to a work she feels more passionate about and that is serving God and still making a difference in the lives of many.

Mrs. Rabukawaqa is a member of the Scripture Union Council and has continued to faithfully served in this role since retirement. She has been and is instrumental in coordinating the publishing of readily accessible devotional materials for students and families alike in Fiji. The publications called Daily Manna and Daily Trust contains solid and enriching daily devotionals that have encouraged many people who look at the Devotionals as an important tool for their own quite times. To put together this publication, a lot of patience, commitment and dedication is required and these are the hallmarks of this great woman of faith. On her retirement, the Fiji Times which covered her story recorded her as saying to the 200 plus education officials present at her farewell including the Minister for Education that, "we need such commitment at this time and we owe it to them" referring to the importance of being loyal to ones employer. She certainly is extremely loyal to her current employer, the Almighty God through His calling in her life in schools, not just as an educator, but a missionary and a member of the SU Council. As Emi reminded the many educators during her retirement party from the Ministry, "you are not alone in your fight, and at the end of the day, we are accountable to God in whatever we do." This timely reminder brings home an important message about Mrs Rabukawaqa's life and that is she holds true to her spiritual calling to continue to serve students and families in Fiji. Emi is today committing her time and life to advance the Kingdom of God and there is no greater calling then to serve King Jesus. Mrs Rabukawaqa like many Christian educators in Fiji are making huge impacts in many lives through their love for King Jesus.

A young man's passion despite the odds.

George Young is an unassuming young man who loves two things...The first is rugby and the second is Jesus Christ. George was part of the Marist Brothers High School CF and during their days and up till today, had to find ways to fellowship together because CF is not accepted at the school since it has its own religious education program. Additionally George and a few of his friends would still meet occasionally for bible study and spiritual encouragement. They continue this fellowship today and are building their strong network of MOB bible study group with some current students. George is also the Treasurer of our volunteer arm for young people called School Working Group (SWG). They are the organisers of most of our events in schools and do this work passionately. This young man from Ra loves serving at SU and is a real encourager to many young people especially current Marist Brothers CF boys. Despite being a quiet and shy young man, George is making impacts for God's kingdom through his life of simplicity and passion.

A Concert of colour, worship, creativity and praise

One would be forgiven if they thought they were in a wrong place when they came to witness the Scripture Union concert. It was a fund raising event with a difference. While Scripture Union aims to raise funds for its work through various means, it reminds itself that a core part of its ministry is built on faith. But the indictment is out there, "faith without works is dead" and so Scripture Union has to action its faith. Its Annual Concert was organised by its SWG volunteers in Suva and together and exposed a variety of talents from different young groups and a few SUIS groups to worship and celebrate King Jesus through action songs, dramas, skits, and testimonies. I reminisced with a group of friends of how as a member of SUIS groups events like this often exposed us to a number of intimate worship songs that was slow yet impressive. However today's generation is showing a whole new level of Christian talent. They are hip-hopping, Chris-

by its SWG brought impressive moves and dances, that often make older bones like ours creak with enthusiasm. This concert exposed so many Christian talents and reminded us how rich in talents our young people have and they want to use it to glorify the King of kings. With the theme of the Harvest is Here, the Kingdom is Near, Pastor Ralulu the main speaker for the night reminded attendees of the importance of this work we are doing in schools. This was a concert of talent and extravaganza for the King of creativity, Jesus Christ and people left blessed. Concert videos will be sold at SU office for those that missed out.

SUIS at Ra Provincial High School

Too often, God works through the prayers of just one committed and dedicated person. And for Headboy of Ra Pro Sakeasi who is in his last year at the school, this prayer was answered when SUIS was held at his school early this month. With volunteer from Australia Michael Jacobsen and our Ra Coordinator Pst Elijah Varani, this was an opportunity for students to soak into the Spirit of the Lord through His WORD, as they enjoyed fellowship. The distance itself is long to travel to the school, but the students had a reason to celebrate as their SUIS visitors brave the distance and the heat to join them for this fellowship. The students were truly blessed

Nawai Secondary School, Nadroga in our radar

Our volunteer missionaries, Pst Ralulu and Brother Apenisa took time to visit Nawai Secondary School in Nadroga and talk to them about SUIS. The school management was excited to learn of SUIS and have accepted and allowed SUIS in the school. And so our two volunteers got to share to students about the love of Jesus Christ and the victory that comes from the cross and how they are an exciting generation who if available will be used mightily by the Lord. Like other schools opening up in the West, one can see the excitement in the lives of students as the truth is shared to them from the Word of God. Exciting times at Nawai Secondary School.

It is for freedom
that Christ set you free.

Freedom that Christ has set us free.
Galatians 5:1

"It was for Freedom that Christ set us Free"

Freedom is today's most cherished commodity. One only has to look to history to find littered amongst its pages, the struggles for freedom. Whether it is struggle to end the slave trade, racial discrimination, cruelties of the world wars and related wars, etc. humanity today continues to fight for freedom. However for the Christians the world-over the greatest victory and freedom is found in the person of Jesus Christ. That Freedom from sin with its bondages and imprisonment of the self to the flesh was made possible through Christ death and resurrection ably conquering the sins of the flesh and allowing humanity to be restored to God the father in fellowship and relationship. With the 2013 Annual Camp theme titled "Freedom in Christ", the expectations amongst the SU Team, its volunteers and of course students is one of excitement. Jasper Williams High School has graciously accepted through its Principal to host this year's annual camp and numbers are now growing as students look forward to a spiritually empowering experience at this camp. Organised by our dedicated western SUIS team with support from the SU main office in Suva, the preparations of the Annual camp is well underway. With a camp fee of $50, students will for the 5 days, dig into the Word of God through the assistance of Christian teachers, pastors and leaders. Together with the Word of God, students are expected to confront social issues and growing up issues like relationships, HIV/STD, depression and addiction, bullying, gender issues and a whole lot more. More information of the Camp can be obtained from the SU office in Suva or from the named persons on the Annual Camp poster attached. One thing is for sure, this will be a memorable camp promising nothing less than Freedom in Christ.

gates (not literally) to direct them to our Annual Christian Camp. This is also one of SU's main calendar activities for the year and is a great time for young people from all over Fiji and in different schools to come together for an awesome time of fellowship and growing together spiritually. Many young people and friends of SU can personally testify of life changing moments through these camps, especially as they respond to God's conviction in their hearts leading them to make that important decision of giving their life to Jesus. The Annual camp is often the place where the walls come down (whether they are religious, denominational, schools, foes etc.) and these young people learn about God, His Word and just spend time unmasking a lot of the issues that they are struggling with. The Annual camps has also been the platform for many of our young people to confront some of their own challenges and often we find so much brokenness, hurts, pain and deep emotional issues. We find that too often these young people carry so much emotional baggage's with them throughout the year. For some it is the result of the educational system, for others its personal or family issues

Friendship

When we did our prayers, many came to make with God. Most of them came broken before God and allowed his Grace to envelop them. The tears that streamed down their faces matched the longings in their heart for something real and that was met on that road to destiny with the Saviour King at BMS. Every Annual camp has its moments and for those attending this camp at BMS, this was one of those moments when as they connected with God and made a commitment for sexual purity and holiness.

Faith meets works for Bucalevu Students at the 2012 Camp

They travelled the longest and the furthest and for the students of Bucalevu Secondary School in Taveuni, the long journey to the 2012 Camp was not only memorable but spiritually encouraging and uplifting for them. Despite the high cost of travels, stolen monies and equipment, sleeping in classrooms in Suva and related experiences, their faith journey provided them the opportunity to see God move in their lives and circumstances. The students enjoyed their camping experiences and all of them gave their life to Jesus at the camp. Bucalevu though travelling the furthest also had the most number of students from one school at this camp. We are expecting another good group from Bucalevu Secondary school at this year's annual camp.

Celebrating SU's 50 years at the 2012 Annual Camp

There are spiritual giants amongst others and many others who have gone before us. Our common factor is our service and love for King Jesus and SU has witnessed this in the 50 years of its existence in Fiji. Beginning in England as a call and a vision, SU came to our shores as part of a vision to keep encouraging the reading and study of the Bible in schools. Since then many of our finest and brightest continue to carry the baton to schools and raising the next generation of Spiritual giants. It is our 50 years and more of testimonies

Q & A at the 2012 Camp

Methodist Church supports Annual Camp

In 2012, the Methodist Church again opened their doors wide open and welcomed Scripture Union into their facilities and to use BMS for its Annual Camping site. The Principal and ordained minister of the Methodist Church, Rev Colati was very supportive of hosting the Annual Camp and provided the schools facilities including dormitories, halls, classrooms, kitchen and gas facility free of charge. This then allowed the Camp Committee to keep the camp fees at a minimum. The General Secretary of the Church, Rev Nawadra officiated at a combine service with the BMS community during the camp and encouraged students and the community at large to keep on trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ. The President of the church, Rev Waqairatu has expressed his support to the work of Scripture Union in schools.

Christianity and the young person.

Many young people are trying to find meaning in their lives. There are a lot of options out there in the world. Music, entertainment, fame, sports and the whole range. Often at our camps (and this camp was no difference, students are reminded of their real worth. 2000 years ago on a cross, our worth was displayed for all to see, our Creator God, dying on the cross to redeem us from the evils and bondages of sin and death. For the many young people coming to camp, this is not a place for them to find religion, but to experience God. We not only meet new people when we march into camp, but for many they make lifelong friends. The pain of good-byes after the camp is made easy knowing that one day we shall be with King Jesus in eternity.

The pain of goodbyes

Teachings about sexual purity

The social media and the mainstream media are two of the most powerful influences in any teenagers life. While we may be a generation that shies when talking or hearing the word “sex”, today’s teenage generation have become used to hearing sex as part of daily conversations. Its not just in spoken form, its but out there so visibly through advertisements, the movies, television and the internet. This is why it is important for the church and ministries like ours to strengthen its discussions around the importance of sexual purity and Paul’s exhortations to keep the marriage bed undefiled. At our Annual Camps, we are beginning to have this conversation with our young people. The message of sexual purity cannot be over-emphasised to this generation if we are want godliness kept sacred and the marriage bed undefiled. This will be a session at the Annual Camp.

Childhood lessons and growing in Christ

It is said that one of the best mirrors of ones life is their children. They imitate parents perfectly because they learn by observing and behave simply by mirroring what they see in their home or environment. Sadly many of our children are in need of good role models in the homes. Good parents who will teach them to love God and live for Him. Unfortunately in our today world, a lot of parents have substituted their godly roles with other distractions in the home. The television, video games, internet, computer games are now main distractions for children and instead of spending quality time with their children, there are now a lot of absentee parents, relying on TV, movies, music and magazines to distract their children. Consequently these distractions are now dictating to children how to live their lives, dress, speak and behave. As a result, we have a generation of children who may be overly confidence but silently screaming for attention. Our work in schools is about teaching children that their confidence is in Christ Jesus. As reflected on the picture, “if we don't teach our children who God is, someone else will teach them everything that He's not”. This important role of teaching children about God cannot be abdicated and must be jealously guarded by parents if they want to see their children grow up knowing and loving God personally.

God and education:

As a child, I remember my parents emphasising the value of education. The important message from dad was that education will open up doors of opportunity in your life. As a child, I did not even think much about the importance of education. For me, life was about getting by. And then I grew up and realise the pearls of wisdom from my parents about the importance of education. I see today that God uses the door of education to unlock dreams, measure potentials and scale the unimaginable. And when ones educational journey is tied to their spiritual destiny, then the possibilities are also endless. So what does it mean to have God in education. Well as a student and being a member of the school’s SUIS group, this meant for me, being diligent and excelling in God’s calling in my life. The value of God in a student’s life cannot be overemphasised and the place of God in education is as equally important. While students face pressures to excel, their resulting coping mechanisms vary from drinking to party to late night coffees. But as a Christian, this coping mechanisms to meet the demands of academic excellence was prayer and God. This worked for me and I know many students are trying to find working mechanisms to meet the pressures to excel. God and education will be a session in this year’s Annual Camp.

Weekly Prayer meetings as QVS SUIS prepares for camp

SUIS teacher Mr. Nailumu confirms that the QVS SUIS are now meeting almost daily as they prepare for the Annual Camp 2013. These prayer meeting times are also times of encouragement for the boys as they share through testimonies and discuss challenges and difficulties they face. Through the Word and in prayer, they then commit to this to the Lord. In speaking with Mr. Nailumu, he affirms that the boys have gone through considerable challenges and many of them find SUIS times as a refresher and an opportunity to experience again that grace of God that sustains and inspires. So the boys now meet for prayer every night after prep (homework), they also meet for Friday nights for their SUIS program and on Sundays. For Mr. Nailumu it is prayer that moves the hand of God and this is why he feels that the boys need as they prepare for the Scripture Union Annual Camp at Jasper Williams at the end of their academic year.

Dealing with emotional pressures: Suicide and the need to address it through the Word of God.

On Wednesday September 11, The Fiji Times carried a story of then Police Commissioner Naivalurua saying that the “shocking” statistics of suicide in Fiji was “concerning” in that the period between “January to August 2013, there were 80 cases of suicide and 83 cases of attempted suicide.” Compared to the same period in 2012, there were “81 cases of suicide and 91 cases of attempted suicide.” The causes of suicide varies but one thing is for sure, the person has an emotional conflict from a burden that they carry that often the only way to deal with it is to end ones life. As a ministry working with young people, we are aware of the pain and emotions that many young people face. In fact SU Western team drew to our attention recently of a form 3 student in a western school who committed suicide late last month because of the pain from unkind words spoken against her by others. This precious life taken too early is a constant reminder of the fragility of many young people in schools. The police commissioner stressed that “...drastic measures will be needed to prevent further escalation of the problem.” (Fiji Times). While the government is figuring out what drastic measures to take, we can offer them the option of Christian Fellowship. SU uses SUIS times to encourage young people and to empower them to live victorious life. The importance of our work and why we need to be vigorous in going to school with the life saving message of Jesus Christ is important in saving lives. Often without Christ, our young people are lost to the snares of the enemy, who comes to steal, kill and destroy lives through suicide. SU will continue its efforts especially at this year’s Annual Camp to confront issues around depression and suicide through the Word of God.

The Growth of SUIS in Western School

33 Western school currently have active SUIS fellowships on a weekly basis. It is pleasing to read of what God is doing in these schools and especially watching the tangible breakthroughs in many students lives. In her update, Di Cuvu, a key member of our Western SU team provided the following information.

Area	No of schools in area	Active weekly SUIS
Ra	5	5
Tavua	5	4
Lautoka	10	4
Nadi	12	9
Sigatoka (Nadroga)	9	8
Ba	9	2
Sigatoka (Navosa)	5	3

We are confident of more open doors in the West as we teach and live Jesus Christ in our school's ministry.

Scripture Union Financial Partnership Project:

The work of Scripture Union is privately funded by those who prayerfully consider giving to support the work of student ministries. Unlike the church or organisations whose funding is from established sources, SU has to rely on the good will of friends to be able to meet its financial obligations such as paying rent, bills, programs such as rallies, camps, schools visitation and a range of activities to encourage our children in schools on a monthly basis. Every year the cost of student ministry increases and so do the challenges and struggles that young people are confronted with.

The pressure to raise children who know God through the Bible is not complete without introducing young people to the Lord Jesus Christ as personal Lord and Saviour. This is the work of Scripture Union in schools and despite the many financial challenges over the years, we hold onto this important part of our work and go into schools to minister to young people about making right choices in their lives. This is where your faith seed will go into. It is about investing in the life of our children and if one makes that decision to follow Jesus Christ, then our financial and other investment is secured in eternity.

In considering whether to partner with Scripture Union one of our current partners stated that, "I believe that the few dollars I put into the work of challenging, inspiring and encouraging our young people in schools in their personal relationship with Christ is an investment whose rewards are numerous." Scripture Union is in the forefront of impacting the next generation of young people for the Lord. By investing in Scripture Union's work, we are investing into the next generation of Christian leaders, pastors, civil servants, NGO workers and the nation as a whole as we challenge and raise up the next generation of champions for Jesus Christ.

This investment is probably the best one you can make as we partner together in this Great Commission in our schools. With Scripture Union, your financial seed goes to changing a child, a student, and tomorrow's leaders today. Just to hear the testimonies of people saved because someone cared enough to give and visit them makes us excited to keep serving God in our schools. Thank you for being our source of blessings through your partnership....and from our heart to yours, Thank you for giving to the Lord through Scripture Union Fiji.

Faith-Seed acknowledges the Administrator for SUIS WESTERN facebook page for the stories and photos of the West for this edition.
